ATR VERDICT: Second on each of his three starts under Rules, with two of those placed efforts coming over timber, Sledagh sets a fair standard and is expected to be thereabouts again. The vote, however, goes to KINGS CHAMPION. An extended 2m looked on the sharp side at Market Rasen so stepping up in trip should play to his strengths and progress is anticipated. Solid Performer, Cushendun and Blofeld are others to consider.

Top Tip: KINGS CHAMPION (6)

ATR VERDICT: EM FOUR is the only C&D winner in this field having taken his maiden here in January last year. He arguably needs a career best off this mark but if he can build on last weekend's two-length third at Southwell, he has every chance. The Andrew Balding horses are running to form, suggesting Express Train could bounce back to his peak, although the first-time-visored Nazron might be the bigger danger.

ATR VERDICT: Gemmari was strongly fancied over 2m here last time out but, in a muddling race, he failed to give his best before finishing last of five. He can do better off 1lb lower over this trip, but may have to give way to D DAY ARVALENREEVA. A three-time winner over hurdles, she finished a length-and-a-quarter third in the same race and should confirm the form off the same mark. Cardinal Point is ultra-consistent but may have to settle for another place.

ATR VERDICT: A confident vote goes to POWEROFJET, who was able to build on an encouraging chase debut to score at Newcastle. Martin Todhunter's seven-year-old is tasked with a step up in class, coupled with a 7lb rise, but he has scope for considerable progress. Ballyfort won at Kelso in October and is arguably the main danger, and Rock On Jet can be forgiven his latest performance when pulled up over C&D.

ATR VERDICT: THECOFFEEPODDOTCO has run well recently and was only beaten half a length into second over 6f at Lingfield. If she can break smartly once more over this trip, she may try to make every post a winning one. Mad Dash has room for improvement after only two starts and might be the one to follow the suggestion home. Mayflyer is a newcomer of note and could well get involved in the battle for the places.

ATR VERDICT: FOREST BLAZE bounced back to form in first-time cheekpieces here last month. Beaten only a length in second, this extra furlong offers the prospect of further improvement and Mark Walford's charge gets another chance. Runner-up at Doncaster on his return from a layoff, Big Storm Brewing cannot be ruled out with any confidence, while Shadow Chaser can get involved with a reproduction of his good effort here in November.

ATR VERDICT: Runner-up at Southwell a fortnight ago, Chola Empire won when last seen at this venue in October. He holds every chance, but it could be the turn of REVOLUTIONISE once again. Second over C&D last time, the veteran grey has won off higher marks on the all-weather in the past and Jack Dace's 5lb allowance further helps his cause. Me Tarzan just got the better of Arantes Nascimento when scoring at Lingfield and that pair are hard to separate.
