ATR VERDICT: MORNING MAYHEM was a beaten favourite at Wincanton latest but can reward those who keep the faith, as he seems to have less on his plate and an impressive Uttoxeter victory in December remains fresh in the memory. He goes well on deep ground and gets the nod ahead of Character Testing, who performed well for second at Market Rasen. Risk It All is next best.

Top Tip: MORNING MAYHEM (1)

ATR VERDICT: Course scorer Animal is very much respected in here on the back of his Fontwell third, but the verdict goes to BROTHER BORIS. He shaped as though stepping up in trip would suit when finishing a staying-on third over 2m5f here last month and this could be the time to catch him. It's also worth keeping a close eye on Edgewell.

Top Tip: BROTHER BORIS (6)

ATR VERDICT: MERCI MAM won his sole start in France before changing hands for 520,000 euros at the Arqana sales in November. With expectations likely to be high, this half-brother to the smart Instiit is hard to ignore debuting for Dan Skelton at this level. Aqua Bleu didn't beat much in either of his hurdle wins at Doncaster and Lingfield, but he did it impressively and must also be taken seriously. Mwabani is the clear pick of the rest.

ATR VERDICT: A competitive novices' hurdle for punters to solve and only a tentative vote goes the way of SWINGIN SAFARI. He didn't show his best at Kempton but is taken to bounce back judged on the strength of his Wincanton form, not to mention last season's strong bumper performances. Plumpton maiden hurdle winner The Boss Bear looks quite useful and joins Limerick scorer No Cure and improved Sandown runner-up Ionian on the shortlist.

ATR VERDICT: CHASE A FORTUNE has posted two creditable runner-up efforts since landing the spoils at Wetherby in December and this could prove a suitable opportunity to get back on the scoresheet. Chris Grant's inmate is only 1lb higher than his latest second at Sedgefield and he gets the nod ahead of Bertie's Ballet. The Albaasil gelding is entitled to build on last month's return at Haydock, with this drop in grade expected to suit. Handicap-debutant Triple Crown Ted could also feature.
