Long Handicap: Snapaudaciaheros 10 - 0

ATR VERDICT: Gintime ran with plenty of credit in a series final at Kelso last time and is expected to be in the mix, despite there being a concern about her finishing effort, while Rose's Dart has to be considered after scoring at Market Rasen. That said, OUT ON HER OWN may have her day in the sun after a string of runner-up efforts at Carlisle.

ATR VERDICT: ANNIE NAIL won quite comfortably in the end here last week over timber and the decision to turn her out quickly suggests she's come out of that race in good nick. Another bold showing looks assured under a light weight, with Fortunefavorsdbold possibly booked for second again following solid efforts at Leicester and Exeter. Moviddy is another to bear in mind.

ATR VERDICT: Dartmouth Rose won well at Southwell latest and brings winning course form to the table. There is a lot to like about her profile, but the gut feeling is that NATUS VINCERE will have her measure following win and placed efforts at Huntingdon and Market Rasen. She's clearly on good terms with herself and another bold showing looks likely. Silver Gale is next best.

Long Handicap: Do Ye Wanna 10 - 1

ATR VERDICT: DIVILABOTHER is a model of consistency and gets the nod on that basis. A smooth C&D winner last summer, the eight-year-old has held his form well since and comes in here fresh. Asa has race-fitness on her side and is interesting reverting to timber for this assignment, while it would be no surprise if Party In The Park went well.

ATR VERDICT: Slaney Opera, who tries first-time cheekpieces on his debut run for Nick Scholfield, sets the standard despite being unexposed under Rules. However, he gives a fair bit of weight away on his first try over a marathon trip and may be vulnerable on these terms. In receipt of 12lb, ESPERTI is a more proven stayer and may be able to go one better after a good second over an extended 3m6f at Chepstow. Prince Cleni is next best.

Long Handicap: Blended Stealth 9 - 9

ATR VERDICT: GARDENER looks the obvious place to start in division two of this handicap hurdle as he probably won more cosily over C&D last month than the winning distance suggests. This slightly sounder surface shouldn't be a problem for him and the veteran gets the nod ahead of Kool Raoul and Our Laura B, who is expected to get a bit closer to the selection this time.

ATR VERDICT: JAMADA readily has the most convincing form profile and looks the logical choice with Sean Bowen sure to give him every assistance in the saddle. Sense Of Reason has hinted at ability since switching codes but needs another step forward. Therefore, Crackalackin, who was higher rated on the Flat, could be a bigger danger if he takes to hurdles at the first time of asking.

ATR VERDICT: WHATDEAWANT has been performing well in the point-to-point sphere and makes plenty of appeal back under Rules for this assignment in hunter chase company. He represents a top yard and is taken to very close. Nassalam won the Welsh Grand National in 2023 and has to be taken seriously, while Potters Party and Brandy Mcqueen also need considering for this.

On Lovers Walk got back to winning ways in a restricted point over 2m4f at Paxford last week and has to be of interest, while Royal Cave has stood more racing than Chapelier of late and is the preferred option for third place.

ATR VERDICT: PANTILE'S GIFT showed a bit more when fourth at Chelmsford last time and it will be interesting to see if the winner offers that form a timely boost at Leicester. He's worth another go over this trip and makes slightly more appeal than Sovereign Bright, who is back in a handicap following her latest third in a Lingfield maiden. Due To Shine is also noted.

ATR VERDICT: MARRA DONNA will be winning a race of this nature sooner rather than later. He was well fancied to strike on his handicap bow at Wolverhampton when seemingly unlucky, and has performed well in defeat in three subsequent starts. With a bit more luck in running he can strike at the expense of Northern Tempest, Taaklam and course winner Mademoiselle Belle.
